Subject: 2010 Housing Affordability Levels

I. Introduction

Keyser Marston Associates, Inc. (KMA) has prepared estimates of current affordable housing rents and sales prices for the City of San Diego, using 2010 income figures from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), State of California Department of Housing and Community Development (HCD), and the California Tax Credit Allocation Committee (TCAC). This memorandum presents affordable rents and sales prices for two distinct affordable housing programs -- California Redevelopment Law (affordable rents and sales prices) and the Federal Low-Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC) program (affordable rents only).

Both programs employ two separate qualification tests:

- Individual households are qualified based on their actual income adjusted for household size.
- Maximum unit rents and prices are set based on the appropriate household size for a given unit size and specific income thresholds identified by the respective programs.

This memorandum outlines relevant program rules and specific KMA assumptions used in estimating affordable rents and prices. It is organized as follows:

- Section II addresses the income and rental restrictions based solely on California Redevelopment Law.
- Section III calculates maximum income restrictions and affordable rents for developments subject to California Redevelopment Law and financed through the LIHTC program.
- Section IV calculates maximum income and sales prices under California Redevelopment Law.
- Section V provides estimates of utility allowances.

II. California Redevelopment Law - Rental

Under California Redevelopment Law, income restrictions and rent restrictions applying to affordable rental housing for 2010 are as follows:

Exhibit II-1: Income Restrictions - California Redevelopment Law, 2010
Family Size	Very Low Income at or Below 50% AMI	Lower Income Between 51% and 80% AMI	Moderate Income Between 81% and 120% AMI
1 Person	$27,500	$44,000	$63,400
2 Persons	$31,400	$50,250	$72,500
3 Persons	$35,350	$56,550	$81,550
4 Persons	$39,250	$62,800	$90,600
5 Persons	$42,400	$67,850	$97,850

Exhibit II-2: Rent Restrictions - California Redevelopment Law, 2010 ⁽¹⁾
Unit Size	Very Low Income 30% of 50% AMI	Lower Income 30% of 60% AMI	Moderate Income 30% of 110% AMI
Studio	$661	$793	$1,453
1 Bedroom	$755	$906	$1,661
2 Bedroom	$849	$1,019	$1,869
3 Bedroom	$944	$1,133	$2,076
4 Bedroom	$1,019	$1,223	$2,243

(1) Reflects gross rent. Gross rent minus utility allowance = maximum cash rent. See the "San Diego Housing Commission Allowance" to calculate the utility allowance based on project's actual utility profile.

These figures are based on the method of calculation described below.

California Redevelopment Law – Rental
Method of Calculation

- A. Income Restrictions - Qualification of prospective households is based on the actual household's income not to exceed the following income levels:

Very Low Income	Up to 50% AMI
Lower Income	Between 51 - 80% AMI
Moderate Income	Between 81 - 120% AMI

The income levels for all households are determined for San Diego County based on 2010 income limits as established by HUD as of May 2010 (Very Low Income and Lower Income for projects placed in service on or after May 14, 2010) and HCD as of June 2010 (Moderate Income), adjusted for actual household size.

- B. Rent Restrictions - Calculation of affordable rents is based on established benchmarks defined in California Health & Safety Code (H&SC) Section 50053. The detailed calculations are presented in Attachment A and incorporate the following key assumptions.

1. Assignment of family size (number of persons) vs. unit size (number of bedrooms) based on the number of persons exceeding the number of bedrooms by one, as follows:

Unit Size	Household Size
Studio	1.0 Persons
One Bedroom	2.0 Persons
Two Bedroom	3.0 Persons
Three Bedroom	4.0 Persons
Four Bedroom	5.0 Persons

2. Calculation of affordable rents based on the formulas shown below.

Very Low Income	30% of 50% AMI
Lower Income	30% of 60% AMI
Moderate Income	30% of 110% AMI

3. Very Low (50%), Lower (60%), and Moderate (110%) income figures extrapolated from the 100% AMI figures shown in the State Income Limits for 2010, published by HCD for San Diego County, as of June 17, 2010.
4. Utility allowances are determined by the San Diego Housing Commission and should be based on the proposed utility profile for a project. As such, rents as presented reflect gross rents, prior to any deduction for utility allowances.

California Redevelopment Law – Rental
Method of Calculation (Cont'd.)

C. Summary - Income and rent restrictions under California Redevelopment Law are determined based on income limits established by HUD and HCD for San Diego County, as of May 2010 and June 2010, respectively, as follows:

	Very Low Income	Lower Income	Moderate Income
Income	HUD (1)	HUD (1)	HCD
Qualification	Very Low Income	Lower Income	Moderate Income
Restricted Rent	HCD	HCD	HCD
	50% of Median Income	60% of Median Income	110% of Median Income

(1) For projects placed in service on or after May 14, 2010.

III. California Redevelopment Law and Low Income Housing Tax Credits

Income restrictions and rent restrictions applying to affordable rental housing for 2010, combining California Redevelopment Law and the Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program, are as follows:

Exhibit III-1: Income Restrictions - Combined California Redevelopment Law/Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program, 2010

Family Size	Very, Very Low Income Below 40%	Very Low Income Below 50%	Lower Income Below 60%
1 Person	$22,000	$27,500	$33,000
2 Persons	$25,120	$31,400	$37,680
3 Persons	$28,280	$35,350	$42,420

3 Bedroom	$816	$944	$1,133
4 Bedroom	$911	$1,019	$1,223

(1) Reflects gross rent. Gross rent minus utility allowance = maximum cash rent. See the "San Diego Housing Commission Allowance" to calculate the utility allowance based on project's actual utility profile.

These figures are based on the method of calculation described below.

California Redevelopment Law with Low Income Housing Tax Credits
Method of Calculation

A. Income Restrictions - For San Diego County, the maximum income levels for developments financed with LIHTCs and subject to California Redevelopment Law are identical. However, since maximum income levels released by the California Tax Credit Allocation Committee (TCAC) and income figures released by HUD do differ for some counties, it is important to cross-check both sources to ensure that they are consistent.

B. Rent Restrictions - Calculation of affordable rents is based on the established benchmarks and methodology described in Section II, above. Attachment B provides the detailed calculations used to determine the maximum rent for redevelopment projects financed with LIHTCs. The following assumptions are incorporated.

1. Assignment of family size (number of persons) vs. unit size (number of bedrooms) differ between California Redevelopment Law (CRL) and the LIHTC program. As shown below, California Redevelopment Law assumes the number of persons exceeding the number of bedrooms by one. The LIHTC program assumes 1.5 persons per bedroom.

Unit Size	Household Size
	CRL	LIHTC
Studio	1.0 Persons	1.0 Persons
One Bedroom	2.0 Persons	1.5 Persons
Two Bedroom	3.0 Persons	3.0 Persons
Three Bedroom	4.0 Persons	4.5 Persons
Four Bedroom	5.0 Persons	6.0 Persons

2. Formulas for calculation of affordable rents as follows:

Very, Very Low Income	30% of 40% of AMI
Very Low Income	30% of 50% of AMI
Low Income	30% of 60% of AMI

3. Utility allowances are determined by the San Diego Housing Commission and should be based on the proposed utility profile for a project. As such, rents as presented reflect gross rents, prior to any deduction for utility allowances.
4. As shown in Table B-1, for units below 50% AMI, the maximum rent for redevelopment projects financed with LIHTCs is the same as the maximum rent calculated per the LIHTC program.

California Redevelopment Law with Low Income Housing Tax Credits
Method of Calculation (Cont'd.)

5. As shown in Tables B-2 and B-3, for units at 50% AMI or higher, two separate rent calculations are performed for redevelopment projects financed with LIHTCs. The first calculates affordable rents based California Redevelopment Law. The second estimates rents based on the maximum rents allowed under the LIHTC program. These maximum rents are itemized in Exhibit III-2.

IV. Redevelopment Law – For-Sale

Maximum 2010 income limits and purchase price restrictions, based on California Redevelopment Law, are shown below. The price restrictions were calculated assuming three different for-sale residential product types, as follows:

- Mid-Rise/High-Rise Condominiums (Exhibit IV-2)
- Low-Rise Stacked Flat Condominiums (Exhibit IV-3)
- Townhomes/Single-Family Homes (Exhibit IV-4)

Note that income and price restrictions for Very Low Income households are not considered in this memorandum, given the unlikelihood of affordable for-sale residential developments targeting this income bracket.

Exhibit IV-1: Income Restrictions - California Redevelopment Law, 2010
Family Size	Lower Income Between 51% and 80% AMI	Moderate Income Between 81% and 120% AMI
1 Person	$44,000	$63,400

3 Bedroom	$148,000	$306,000
4 Bedroom	$155,000	$326,000

These figures are based on the method of calculation described below.

California Redevelopment Law – For-Sale
Method of Calculation

- A. Income Restrictions - Qualification of prospective Lower and Moderate income households is based on actual household income limits as established by HUD as of May 2010 (Lower Income for projects placed in service on or after May 14, 2010) and HCD as of June 2010 (Moderate) for San Diego County.

Lower Income	Between 51- 80% AMI
Moderate Income	Between 81- 120% AMI

- B. Price Restrictions - Calculation of affordable sales prices is based on established benchmarks defined in California H&SC § 50052.5. The detailed calculations are presented in Attachment C through E and incorporate the following key assumptions.

1. Assignment of family size (number of persons) vs. unit size (number of bedrooms) based on the number of persons exceeding the number of bedrooms by one.
2. Calculation of affordable sales prices based on the formulas shown below.

Lower Income	30% of 70% of AMI
Moderate Income	35% of 110% of AMI

3. Lower (70%) and Moderate (110%) income figures extrapolated from the 100% AMI figures shown in the State Income Limits for 2010, published by HCD for San Diego County (June 17, 2010).
4. Housing costs should be modified to reflect the specifics of the project. For illustrative purposes, KMA has assumed the following housing related costs:
 - Utilities (see detailed discussion in Section V).
 - HOA dues (reflects allowance for structure insurance, maintenance, and reserves).
 - Property taxes assuming a 1.15% tax rate.
 - Supportable mortgage assuming a 30-year loan; 6.5% interest; and a 5% down payment.

California Redevelopment Law – For-Sale Method of Calculation (Cont'd.)
C. Summary – As shown above, income and price restrictions under California Redevelopment Law are determined based on income limits established by HUD and HCD for San Diego County, as follows:
	Lower Income	Moderate Income
Income Qualification	HUD Lower Income	HCD Moderate Income
Restricted Price	HCD 70% of Median Income	HCD 110% of Median Income

V. Estimates of Utility Allowances

A. Rental Restrictions – Estimate of Utility Allowance

Utility allowances by unit size are determined by the San Diego Housing Commission. The utility allowance estimate is based on general assumptions regarding the utility profile for a typical residential development. However, the actual utility allowance should be based on the developer's proposed utility profile for a specific project. As such, all rent calculations in this memorandum reflect gross figures, prior to any deductions for utility allowances. See the "San Diego Housing Commission Utility Allowance" to calculate the utility allowance based on a project's actual utility profile.

B. Price Restrictions – Estimate of Utility Allowance

Attachment F provides the assumptions used to calculate utility allowances by unit size as determined by the San Diego Housing Commission, assuming the utility profile for a typical residential development. As noted above, the actual utility allowance should be based on the developer's proposed utility profile.
